

Blaize to Speak at the AI Summit at Web Summit in Lisbon

November 3, 2025

Blaize Co-founder and Chief Software Architect to discuss how new silicon architectures are driving the next evolution in AI computing

EL DORADO HILLS, Calif.--(BUSINESS WIRE)--Nov. 3, 2025-- Blaize Holdings, Inc. (NASDAQ: BZAI, NASDAQ: BZAIW) ("Blaize"), a leader in programmable, energy-efficient edge AI computing, today announced that its Co-founder and Chief Software Architect, Val Cook, is speaking at the AI Summit at Web Summit, taking place November 10-13, 2025 in Lisbon, Portugal.

The AI Summit at Web Summit convenes leading AI researchers, engineers, and industry leaders to discuss the technologies, challenges, and ethical considerations shaping the future of AI. Topics will include AI's role in enterprise transformation, security, sustainability, and long-term societal impact.

Event Panel Details: The AI Summit at Web Summit – “From Moore’s Law to More AI: The Next Era of Silicon”

With GPUs in short supply and startups rethinking architecture, the future of AI may be shaped as much by chipmakers as by model builders. This session will explore how new chip architectures are rewriting the competitive landscape.

Date: Tuesday, November 11, 2025

Time: 2:15-2:35 p.m. WET

Location: Stage 4

Moderated by: Charlie Perreau, Technology Editor at Les Échos

Panelists:

- Val Cook, Co-founder and Chief Software Architect, Blaize
- Walter Goodwin, Co-founder and CEO, Fractile

This appearance follows Blaize's recent participation in the Milken Institute 2025 Asia Summit and its exhibition at GITEX GLOBAL 2025. Since going public earlier this year, Blaize has accelerated its global expansion, deploying hybrid AI systems that power real-world applications in smart infrastructure, industrial automation, and defense.

Since June 2025, Blaize has announced:

- A $56 million smart city deployment in South Asia with Yotta Data Services
- A $120 million hybrid AI infrastructure agreement across Asia with Starshine Computing Power Technology Limited
- A strategic partnership with Saudi Arabia's Technology Control Company (TCC) to build sovereign AI infrastructure

Building on this momentum, Blaize's participation at the AI Summit at Web Summit in Lisbon underscores the company's growing influence in shaping the next generation of intelligent computing. Learn more about the Blaize AI Platform and AI Summit at Web Summit ahead of this year's event.
