

The following contains communications Blaize, Inc. ("Blaize") made to its external audience via email on December 22, 2023.

Dear Blaize Community,

Blaize has been considering various options for fundraising over the last several months.

Following extensive discussions and thoughtful consideration of our various options, we are announcing today that we will combine with a publicly traded special purpose acquisition company (commonly referred to as a SPAC) called BurTech Acquisition Corp. (NASDAQ: BRKH) ("BurTech") – please read the joint press release issued by Burkhan and Blaize today to learn more. Upon closing the proposed transaction, Blaize will become a publicly traded company, expected to be listed on Nasdaq under a new ticker symbol. The proposed transaction values Blaize at a pro forma enterprise value of $894 million.

We considered various options for maximizing Blaize's shareholder value, including raising fresh capital via private and traditional public market alternatives. After considering these alternatives, we chose to pursue a SPAC process as it allows us to raise capital quickly while providing a streamlined path to a public company and giving existing shareholders a clear path to achieve liquidity.

This is a tremendous opportunity for our company. We would not be in this position without the hard work and support of our investors and employees, who have helped us build this company into what it is today. We are beyond grateful to you all for your part in this.

The opportunity before us represents a leveling-up in all respects. We are hard at work preparing for this new chapter as a public company.

We appreciate that there will be a lot of questions, and we look forward to answering them as further details become public.

Thank you for your support and faith in us for all these years. We are excited about what's ahead.
